

Custom Cabinetry Through the Generations

From our families to yours

Lakeville Industries

Since 1935, Lakeville has been satisfying discriminating customers. The Sirlin brothers, Morris, Jack, and Louis, founded Lakeville originally located in New Hyde Park, New York. One year later, in 1936, Lakeville moved to a larger showroom in Floral Park, New York.

In 1938, with twenty-five employees, two trucks, and a daily production of fifty cabinets, Lakeville moved again to Great Neck, New York. Two years later, with sixty-five employees, three trucks, and a daily production of one hundred and twenty-five cabinets, Lakeville again moved to Hicksville, New York. One last move, in 1942, to our present home in Lindenhurst, New York.

Three generations of the Sirlin family have guided Lakeville to its present day as a leading wholesale supplier of kitchen and bath cabinets. For over 75 years, customers both large and small, have depended on the service and reputation of Lakeville for their cabinet needs. In fact, we've designed over 250,000 kitchens...one in every four Long Island homes!

The Sirlin family has operated Lakeville, at the same location in Lindenhurst, for over fifty-five years. When you think about doing business with reputable and stable companies, Lakeville is Number One.

Complete Dedication to our Customers
For three generations the very core of Lakeville's Business philosophy has remained the same.

Plain & Fancy Custom Cabinetry

Our story begins in 1968, in the rolling farmland of south central Pennsylvania. A serene setting where many families worked the land, and craftsmen made wonderful things by hand. That year, a craftsman named John Achey made his hobby – his passion for cabinetmaking – the family business, and Plain & Fancy Custom Cabinetry was born.

Over 40 years later, our family business of six is now a family company of over 200. But, as we've evolved, what's made Plain & Fancy something very special hasn't changed a bit. The Plain & Fancy family of today, the family that will work with you to create your dream kitchen, bath or any other room, takes pride in truly understanding you and helping you realize your vision, from design to finish.

Our tradition of exceptional design and craftsmanship has stood the test of time. We still hand build each cabinet from the finest woods, with mortise and tenon or dowel construction and soft-close dovetail drawers. Plain & Fancy's cabinetry durability is courtesy of time-honored construction and finishing techniques practiced by the world's most skilled craftsmen.

Our custom cabinetry, doors and drawers are solidly and precisely made of the finest materials to ensure that they are as near to perfection as human craftsmanship and modern technology will allow. With the help of our state-of-the-art finishing facility and custom color lab, our finishing experts make it their business to ensure each cabinet, each door and every detail is finished to perfection.

To demonstrate our commitment to environmental responsibility, Plain & Fancy became a Certified Participant in the KCMA's Environmental Stewardship Program. Plain & Fancy cabinetry is made in the USA using the finest grade North American hardwoods.
